JESSE HUTSON FURLOUGHED

Here and There

Editorial By ALEX. H. WASHBURN

IF THE authorities ever appeared to worse advantage than in the Bradley county arson investigation I don't recollect it. U. A. Gentry, state insurance commissioner and fire marshal, took over the case after Hope police had obtained important leads—and regardless what you think about the folly of policemen signing a "letter" for a convicted man the final responsibility for this disaster rests upon the state government.

Double Taxation to Wipe Out Big Fortunes in U. S.

Roosevelt Administration to Take 85 Cents of Each Dollar

TAX AT BOTH ENDS

Both the Estate and the Individual Heirs Would Have to Pay

WASHINGTON—New Dealers are drafting a radical system of double taxation on estates which would make the inheritance of huge fortunes a thing of the past in America, and which would accomplish their dream of redistributing the wealth.

This was revealed at the Treasury Department Thursday when tax experts disclosed a proposal to add inheritance taxes as much as 65 per cent to the present estate taxes.

Eliminate Fortunes

Huge fortunes such as those of the Rockefellers, Morgans and the McVays would be forced to pay almost 85 per cent in taxes on every dollar and thus could be virtually eliminated. Even estates as small as $10,000 might be called on to pay a 6 per cent tax.

Treasury officials laughed when reporters compared their proposal to Senator Huey P. Long's radical scheme of the wealth program which would confiscate everything over $3,000,000 or $4,000,000.

Families like the Rockefellers would have to liquidate or turn over to the government their holdings in companies like Standard Oil to meet the taxes.

An estate of $100,000,000 might, under certain conditions, have to pay total taxes of almost $85,000,000 under tentative proposal. A $10,000,000 estate under the same circumstances would be taxed $7,000,000 and a $10,000 estate would pay approximately $600.

To Be Taxed Twice

This drastic system of taxation and wealth redistribution would result, under the plan disclosed at the Treasury, from taxing estates twice.

The estate would have to pay estate taxes, which now are graduated from one per cent on $10,000 to 60 per cent on everything over $10,000,000. In addition, each heir would have to pay an income or excise tax on the share which he receives, at the same rates as those which now prevail in the income tax.

Thus an estate of $10,000 would have to pay $100 in estate taxes, leaving $9,900 for the heirs. If there was a sole heir who was married but had no dependents except his wife, he would have to pay under the existing income tax rates, an additional inheritance tax of $500, making the total tax approximately $600.

Tornado Injures Man

OKLAHOMA CITY.—(AP)—One man was seriously injured in a tornado near Billings, the Chikaskia river was overflowing its banks near Blackwell, visibility was limited by dust to a half mile in the arid panhandle and some damage was caused to homes in Ponca City as wind, hail, rain and dust storms swept Oklahoma overnight. Joe Klafka, farmer residing a mile east of Billings, was struck by flying timber when a small tornado struck in Northwest Noble county Thursday night.

Republicans Begin Vet Bonus Fight

Oppose Harrison Compromise; Ask for Vinson Bill

Administration Faces Critical Fight in Upper House of Congress

NRA IS NEAR VOTE

Roosevelt May Ask Senate to Pass It Before Test in House

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—The Harrison plan for compromising the bonus issue faces threatened difficulties in the form of a Republican drive for the Vinson bill to pay the bonus in full immediately.

Senate Republicans are almost unanimously for the Vinson measure which the house has defeated, it was revealed Friday.

A party conference on the issue has been called by the Republicans for Saturday.

NRA Approaches Vote

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—Authoritative sources reported Friday that the president is willing that the senate pass the NRA extension bill first as an effort to quell threatening unrest in the house.

House members objected to "taking the rap" by passing the controversial administration bill first.

Chairman Walsh predicted the senate labor committee will report the Wagner labor relations bill next week substantially in its present form.

Hopkins on New Job?

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—Harry L. Hopkins, mystery man in the work relief setup, is generally expected to be placed in charge of the Division of Progress in administering the 4-billion-dollar fund. This division is to have charge of checking up on the stimulating of work activities.

Harrison Bill Advances

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—The cash bonus issue was before the senate Thursday for its supreme test, having received a favorable report from the senate finance committee on the compromise Harrison plan.

Demands for full cash payment of the adjusted service certificates were turned down by the committee in approving the Harrison bill. They will be battled for on the senate floor.

The conservative finance committee, however, made an important concession to the veterans before reporting the measure. It attached an amendment to give the soldiers cash instead of bonds on the surrender value of their certificates.

Written in also was an amendment to permit the president in his discretion to pay the certificates out of the $4,880,000,000 work relief fund recently voted by congress. Offered by Senator Gore, Democrat, Oklahoma, the proposal was adopted despite protests by administration leaders.

Approval Predicted

Chairman Harrison, author of the compromise proposal, said the bill as reported was satisfactory except for the Gore amendment, and predicted it would receive President Roosevelt's signature if passed. He said he probably would move to take the bill up in the senate Friday, in place of the pending Costigan-Wagner anti-lynching bill.

Cash bonus leaders were hopeful, despite their setback in the committee.

The Patman bill, a new greenback measure, was passed by the house but defeated in the Harrison committee Thursday when a move to substitute the Vinson bill for it was approved.

Full cash payment would be made to the Treasury the method of raising the money.

Compromise Substituted

However, the Harrison compromise bill was proposed as a substitute for the Vinson proposal, and the move carried, 12 to 8. Thus the committee chairman's bill was reported to the senate.

Harrison's bill provides for moving up the issuance date of the certificates to the end of the year in 1918, making their current surrender value about $500,000,000 more than under the present law, and resulting in their receiving full value generally in 1942 instead of 1945.

Veterans could exchange their certificates for cash or three per cent bonds up to the current surrender value, which on the average certificate is now $770. Loans already made, together with interest, would be deducted.

Frank T. Hines, veterans' administrator, estimated the bill would need a $1,000,000,000 appropriation, at $58,253,000 more over present law. Secretary Morgenthau has told the committee it would require new taxes, but Harrison contends that only sufficient revenue would be needed to provide a sinking fund and that this might be provided without new taxes.

Male Dress Designer Murdered, Slayer Commits Suicide

POLICE INVOLVE 3

Chauffeur Believed to Have Shot 2 Men and Then Himself

HOLLYWOOD, Calif.—(AP)—Death stalked through Hollywood Friday leaving in its wake two men dead and a third probably fatally wounded.

Confronted with apparent cases of murder, near-murder and suicide, police sought to unravel a weird maze of facts in the shooting of Paul Wharton, 25, Hollywood dress designer; William Howard, 35, former ensign in the Navy and chauffeur for the style creator; and Harry E. Bolte, 38, law instructor at the University of California.

Wharton was murdered at the tragic climax of an intimate supper in his apartment.

Howard later was found dead in another apartment building.

It is believed Howard shot Wharton, drove to Bolte's apartment, shot him, and then killed himself.

Ask Federal Aid for State Court

Harrison Judge Asserts Five of Six Counties Without Funds

HARRISON, Ark.—Circuit Judge Jack Holt, in letters sent Thursday to Senators Robinson and Caraway and Congressman Fuller, appealed for enactment of a bill to be introduced in congress providing federal funds for holding courts.

The letters said that in five of the six counties in the Fourteenth Judicial Circuit it is impossible to hold two terms of court a year as the law directs. Lack of funds for this purpose for which much federal money is spent in apprehending and running down criminals. He said that he feels a part of the government's money should be used to enable its courts to function as the law intends.

The editorial came directly after the return of Clark Howell Sr., editor and president of the Constitution, from attending newspaper meetings in New York.

It was during Mr. Howell's visit to the East that the governor said President Roosevelt was a "radical in the extreme," that his re-nomination would be a "catastrophe" and predicted a third party for the 1936 general elections.

The editorial, appearing on the streets in the early night editions, also flayed Commissioner of Agriculture Thomas M. Linder for years Tammany's right-hand man.

The editorial, captioned "Our Don Quixotes," said it was not surprising that the "hysterical outbursts" of Tammany and Linder against the president and the Democratic administration "are being universally condemned."

It said some of the experimental policies of the administration may be subjected to reasonable objection taken as a whole the recovery program has brought about amazing change in the conditions existing when President Roosevelt assumed office.

Besides Mr. Anderson the new club officers chosen Friday were:

A. H. Washburn, vice-president; secretary, the Rev. Thomas Brewster; treasurer, Leon Cunningham; directors, J. Carter Johnson and the Rev. Fred Harrison.

Flood Reservoir Plan Is Endorsed

State Planning Board Forwards Resolution to Army Engineers

LITTLE ROCK.—(AP)—The State Planning Board endorsed a plan for reservoir control on the Mississippi and its tributary flood waters Friday.

Governor Futrell led the discussion preceding adoption of a resolution addressed to the National Resources Planning Board, the United States Army Engineers, and the Arkansas congressional delegation.

J. O. E. Beck, Sr., said Senator Robinson favored constructing reservoirs on the upper reaches of the Arkansas, White and St. Francis rivers.

Futrell said he thought the reservoirs also would prevent disastrous droughts.

Roy W. Spence was named secretary of the State Planning Board.

Roosevelt Is to Speak on Sunday

Will Address Nation Sunday Night on Federal Work Plans

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—President Roosevelt Friday completed his relief organization with the appointment of Harry Hopkins as administrator of the Works Progress Division, which he charged with making certain that the persons employed on work projects come from the relief rolls.

The United States Employment Service is given general charge of the re-employment of persons on work relief who desire to return to private employment.

President Speaks Sunday

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—A Works Allotment Board of 22, headed by Secretary Ickes, was named by President Roosevelt Thursday to advise him how to spend the $4,000,000,000 work relief fund.

Mr. Roosevelt called a White House conference Friday night on the work program and arranged to address the nation on the same subject Sunday night.

Summoned to the conference were Ickes, chairman of the Allotment Board, Undersecretary Tugwell and Frank C. Walker, head of the Emergency Council and its Applications and Information Division. These three belonged to the Allotment Board.

But also summoned, with their work relief connections not explained, were Harry L. Hopkins, the relief administrator; Joseph Kennedy, chairman of the Securities Commission; and former Representative Charles West of Ohio, the White House liaison officer with congress.

The position of Hopkins was a mystery. There were intimations that the president had in mind some important role for him.

Selection of Ickes to head the Allotment Board caused predictions of new congressional attacks. Members of congress repeatedly have criticized Ickes for his disregard of them in handling the original public works fund.

The Works Allotment Board will be made up of the heads of 22 governmental divisions that will have a part in the program.

Another division will be created, in addition to those which the president has said would be set up to handle rural resettlement, grade crossing elimination and rural electrification.

Futrell Backs Up Immunity Pledge Given by Gentry

Release of Second Convicted Man Follows Crossnoe Sentence Stay

NEGRO STILL HELD

LITTLE ROCK.—(AP)—Governor Futrell disclosed Friday he had granted a 90-day furlough to Jesse Hutson, of Hope, serving a prison sentence for arson from Bradley county.

Hutson was convicted in the burning of a gin in Bradley county which Charles Crossnoe also was given a 6-year term.

The governor said, "The real guilty party is still out of the penitentiary."

Governor Futrell said: "Hutson is a young man of good family and has served nearly a year of his sentence."

Futrell said he felt Hutson ought to be indefinitely furloughed.

Chris Wheaton, negro also convicted of arson, was still serving his sentence at Cummins Prison Farm Friday.

The governor said the Hutson furlough was granted Thursday.

Gentry Denies Action

LITTLE ROCK.—(AP)—State Insurance Commissioner U. A. Gentry issued a statement Thursday in which he said he did not recommend that Governor Futrell grant a stay of sentence to Charles Crossnoe of Hope, sentenced several months ago to six years in the penitentiary on a charge of arson.

A 30-day stay was issued by the governor Monday on recommendation of the further mayor and several officials at Hope. The order granting the stay was not made public until Wednesday.

Mr. Gentry said he was summoned to the governor's office when a petition for stay of sentence was presented by residents of Hope, and that he related circumstances surrounding Crossnoe's confession that he procured the burning of a gin near Warren in Bradley county.

The confession was obtained by Mr. Gentry and investigators from his office last September after Mr. Gentry had recommended to the prosecuting attorney that consideration be given Crossnoe for furnishing information which resulted in arrest and conviction of Ben F. Wilson, Minden, La., cotton gin salesman, on a charge of hiring Crossnoe to burn a gin.

Before making the purported confession in the Bradley county case, Crossnoe had been released to setting fire to a building in Hempstead county, Mr. Gentry said, but two grand juries have refused to indict him in that case.

Declined to Ask Stay

Mr. Gentry said he declined to join in recommending that a stay of sentence be granted, in view of the fact that charges against Crossnoe in Hempstead county apparently have been dropped.

The owner of the gin burned in Bradley county has a civil suit for damages pending in Bradley Circuit Court against the Continental Gin Company and its salesman, Wilson, whose conviction was reversed by the Arkansas Supreme Court recently on the ground that testimony of Crossnoe and Jess Hutson, now serving three years in the penitentiary in connection with the gin burning, to the effect that Wilson hired them to burn the gin, was not sufficiently corroborated by other witnesses.

Mr. Gentry said he understood that the stay was requested to permit Crossnoe to appear as a witness for the plaintiff in that case.

British Cabinet Subjected to Fire

LONDON, Eng.—(AP)—The British cabinet will be subjected to fire from two sides in the house of commons next week when labor party members jump on Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald for his new criticism of Germany and the "bigger air corps" group demands a faster expansion of the royal air force. The laborites have decided to make MacDonald's article in the national labor magazine, "The new Wehr Letter," the basis for much of their attack on the government's foreign policy.

Tight or Short Shoes May Bend in Toes

When you wear shoes that are too tight, and particularly shoes that are too short, the toes are likely to be forced back into that right angle position that is called "hammer toe." Of course, some children are born with hammer toes.

For either form—that is, whether the child is born with hammer toe or develops it later as a result of wearing the wrong kind of shoes—the treatment is essentially the same.

One method of treatment of hammer toe is simply to amputate the whole toe. We really get along quite well with three or four toes, yet, of course, there are many people who do not like to lose any sections of the body unless absolutely necessary.

For these people there are available other operations which are a little more complicated. In one of the methods the toe is opened and the small bone in the toe nearest to the foot is removed.

As a result of this operation, the hammer toe disappears, but, of course, the joint becomes ineffective and the toe can be bent either upward, or downward or to the side, becoming what is called a flail toe. This is not very important to people who wear shoes most of the time.

This operation, however, is not nearly as good as those which give the person a practically normal toe after the operation. In one of these the tendons are operated on and the toe is put in a splint, which holds it in proper position as it heals.

In another, the joint involved is operated on, with the result that the toe appears normal and is able to grip the ground like a normal toe, although there may be some stiffness in the joint after the operation.

This type of operation is not exceedingly difficult, and any of the men who specialize in operations on bones and joints should be able to perform it satisfactorily in most instances.

In developing these operations, new instruments and splints have been involved, which aid the doctor in obtaining a more nearly perfect result.

A BOOK

It's Mysterious, But Not a Mystery Tale—'Most Beautiful Lady' Has Merits Aside From Plot

"Most Beautiful Lady," by Dorothea Brande, is presented as a mystery novel—which seems to me to be a mistake.

Although this book does have a plot built up around a very dark and puzzling situation, its interest which this mystery arouses in the reader's mind, does not depend on the speculations of the reader's mind.

It presents real, living people in an absorbing psychological tangle, and you read it, not to "see how it's going to come out," but to follow the fortunes of characters who have caught your imagination.

It brings us to an elaborate Italian palace where a newly rich gent has hired three artists to do portraits of his wife, who is excessively beautiful, but who doesn't seem to have quite all her marbles. His brother-in-law, a decayed French duke, drifts about the place, as does an innocent younger niece with whom one of the artists properly falls in love.

Over the place there hangs an air of mystery.

When the Stanford, Ky., town clock stopped recently, two clockmakers investigated and found that the clock had taken up quarters in the dome and had stored more than 250 pounds of honey in the clock.

More than 1,000,000 college students are numbered in this country, and only 45,000 in England. The United States has eight times as many students as all Great Britain.

When her husband's love is waning, a Moroccan woman buys some honey, pours it on her forehead and lets it run down her face. She catches the drips from her chin with a spoon, pricks her tongue with a fig-leaf, mixes the blood with seven grains of salt and the honey, takes dirt from her footprint and puts the concoction into the food of her wayward husband.

Six-tenths of a mile of blood vessels is required for every pound of fat in the human body.

Another actress uses a plain oatmeal mask once a week. She mixes uncooked oatmeal with enough sweet milk to form a smooth paste and smears it on her face and neck. Then she lies down until the mask is thoroughly dry. She removes it with lukewarm water and puts on a nourishing cream before making up. When she is in a town where the water is quite hard, she tosses a small cheesecloth bag of uncooked oatmeal into the tub to soften the water.

Still another famous beauty of the screen told me that she depends on fresh lemon juice to keep her elbows white and to remove stains from her fingertips. She always keeps half of a lemon on a shelf in the bathroom. When she has washed her hands, she dips her fingers into the pulp and juice and then rinses again.

SHE brushed her lips lightly against his cheek, caught his hand, held it in both of hers for a moment. Then, with a low, throaty sigh, she pushed him over toward the big overstuffed chair and said, "Sit there, Norman. I'm so nappy I'm afraid I can't add a column of figures. But I'll try, because it has to be done. We're fighting against minutes. Sergeant Mahoney is locking for me and it won't be long until he finds me. When he does we have to have this thing solved. Without a word Norman sat down, took a cigar from his case, and lit it.

"Go ahead," he said, "I'll wait. I can wait, now that I know how you feel. Only work as fast as you can, so that I can get out and do my share toward cleaning this thing up."

She made no attempt at an orderly audit of the books. Instead she looked for certain tell-tale evidences of discrepancies—bills, slips, which she had learned during the time she had acted as assistant to a public accountant.

He sends her to a beauty shop where she is transformed into a brunette, then takes her home, introducing her as his secretary. She meets Hap's son, NORMAN, his stepson, ROBERT GENTRY, Hap's partner, and VERA DUCHENE, Mrs. Hap's maid.

In Hap's home Millicent sees the mysterious woman in black ermine whom she believed had some connection with Dringold's death. The chauffeur is found dead. Later Hap is kidnapped.

Millicent and Norman learn the car driven by the woman in ermine belongs to PHYLIS FAULCONER. They go to her apartment and while they are there someone tries to enter. Norman follows to find out who it is. Millicent discovers the suitcase containing Hap's business accounts, takes it and goes to the hotel where she stopped before.

Norman comes. There is a scene between them in which he takes her in his arms.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXVIII

NORMAN said, "Millicent, I love you. That's why it meant so much to me when I found you were safe after knowing you had been in such danger. I didn't want to tell you now because I was afraid you'd think I was just like Bob Calse. I know the way he must have tried to force himself upon you. But it's different with me. Won't you understand? Can't you understand?"

She tried to find words, but words would not come.

He misconstrued her silence. "Oh, please, dearest one," he said, "please don't misunderstand me! I can't bear the thought of living without you. Please don't be prejudiced against me because I was swept off my feet. Give me a chance to show you that I really do love you. After we have all of these troubles behind us—after we are living as we want to, without fear of what may be just around the corner. Then, sometime when you have learned to know me better, I'll ask you to marry me. Until then, please hold your mind open. Please don't become prejudiced."

And then she found her voice and heard herself saying, "Silly, can't you see I love you, too?"

His arms closed about her. Their lips clung together for a rapturous moment.

This time it was Norman who terminated the caress. Slowly he released her, looking at her with eyes in which there was no longer hunger, but only a deep tenderness.

"Dearest," he said, "we owe it to you to get this thing straightened out and, by heaven, we're going to straighten it out! We're going to find the person who killed Dringold and we're going to find Harry Felding's murderer. Just let me sit over here where I can watch you while you work on those books. Then we'll go find Gentry and when we find him I'll confront him with the facts and figures."

HE unlocked the door, held it open for her, and together they descended to the lobby. Hap headed the suitcase across the counter to the clerk and said, "That has some valuable documents in it. Give me a receipt and keep it in a safe place. The suitcase is the property of Miss Millicent Jones who is registered with you."

The clerk eyed him with cynical appraisal, but what he saw in Norman Hap's eyes made him lower his own and nod with unaccustomed civility.

"Very well, sir," he said, making out a receipt.

Norman told the receipt, handed it to Millicent and said, "You'd better keep this with that note Bob Calse wrote and then you'll have all the evidence together."

They caught a taxicab, went to the liquor store, and Norman Hap

Sin Denounced by Hope Revivalist

Miss Lewis Preaches on Biblical Story of Naaman the Leper

Miss Georgia Lewis' message at the Tabernacle Thursday night was an enlargement upon the story of Naaman the Leper, found in the 5th chapter of II Kings. Following are some of the high points of her sermon.

"Naaman was a good man, an honorable man, had won many victories but he was a leper. Leprosy is a type of sin. There are lots of people today who are good moral people, good neighbors and all, but they have a heart disease, sin. Sin is a disease that is worse than leprosy. We don't have to go to India or some other foreign country, nor even to New York or Chicago to find sin. It is right here at home."

"Sin is a matter of the mind, a matter of the will. A sinner is one who lives in opposition to the will of God. We believe that it is wrong to drink, smoke, etc., after becoming a Christian, but the first thing necessary is to get the will right with God. The fact that people will not yield their will to God makes them sinners."

"The little captive Jewish maid in the house of Naaman was faithful in telling of the power of God to heal. Naaman being a high ranking officer in the Syrian army came to the river of Israel to be healed. He came with considerable pomp, feeling the dignity and pride of his position. The king could not heal him, and thought that the king of Syria was lying a plot for him. Elisha the prophet heard of the matter and sent word for Naaman to come to him. Instead of going out to him when he came calling upon God and healing him there, Elisha told Naaman to go to the river Jordan and dip himself 7 times and he would be healed. The river Jordan was a dirty river, and the thought of dipping in it was repulsive to Naaman. His pride kept him from going but his servants suggested that it would be better for him to go to the Jordan than to go through life with leprosy. Pride is leading people to hell today. Naaman finally decides, regardless of pride or reputation, to go down to bathe in Jordan. Do what we know is right to do and God will take care of the rest. Five dips did not do the work, six times, and yet he was not healed, but after dipping the seventh time in complete obedience to God's command he was completely delivered. 'Obedience is better than sacrifice and to harken better than the fat of rams.'"

"We are telling you tonight of the stream called Calvary. If we dip in this stream, we shall be made every bit whole. Thank God for this fountain that has been up-dipped in the house of David for sin and uncleanness. Won't you step in and be made whole?"

Czech Beauty Virginia Fete Queen

(Copyright, Bachrach.)

A beauty from far Czechoslovakia will reign as queen of the famed apple blossom festival in the historic Shenandoah valley of Virginia this year. Third girl of foreign parentage so to be honored is Nelita Veverka, shown here in a recent portrait. Daughter of her country's minister to Washington, Miss Veverka has been a capital resident since seven years, finishing her education there. More than 100,000 visitors are expected at the festival in Winchester, Va., May 2 and 3.

tense and glowing words of the Psalmist.

To him the Scriptures had ceased to be merely formal writings; they were living documents enforced and made incarnate by the One whom he had discovered—Jesus Christ—and in whom he found his fulfillment.

To Timothy, as a young man, he commends the Scriptures as providing the complete equipment of the workman who would be furnished to do everything well. "Study to show thyself a workman approved unto God," wrote Paul to Timothy, "rightly dividing the word of truth."

Very young man who receives that exhortation could not find a better means of fulfilling it than by immersing his life in the Scriptures, and making them the motive power of his life. Of course, one cannot do that without coming above all things, to know the Christ of the Scriptures.

He is the Word of Truth.

Clipper Soars in Majestic Beauty Over Calm Pacific Wins U.S. Beauty Honor by a Neck Where Earthquake Took Many Lives

Sharply silhouetted against a background of creamy sky, beneath clouds shot through with rays of the setting sun, the Pan American Clipper soars above the placid waters of the Pacific, a majestic symbol of man's conquest of time and distance, in this beautiful camera study of the ship that is blazing the trail for the new California-China air route.

Perish the thought that science has turned to necking, because it's all in the interest of better sculpture. That's the most beautiful throat and neck in America which Prof. Frederick Schweigart, world-famed sculptor, is giving his undivided attention. So he'll use Miss Cynthia Ricketts as his model for several pieces of statuary which will grace the world's fair in San Diego, Calif.

Rivalling in severity the earthquake that destroyed Japan's principal cities twelve years ago, a succession of temblors rocked the island of Formosa, killed more than 3,000 persons, injured 12,000 and destroyed homes of 250,000. The area most seriously shaken is shown in black on the map above.

Confesses Slaying Parents

Howard Pierson, his arm in a sling, demanded a comb and a mirror before he would pose for photographers in the Austin jail where he is held under a charge of murdering his mother, right, and father, at the left. On the table beside him is the pistol used in the slaying on lonely Bull Creek drive, a few miles out of Austin. He shot his mother first and then his father, an associate justice of the Texas supreme court and for years a power in Texas political, Masonic and Baptist life. He first told police bandits had done the killing, shooting him in the battle. He later admitted he had slain his parents to inherit their property and $17,000 insurance money. The wound in his arm he inflicted himself.

Soon to Know Their Fate in Bremer Kidnap Trial

Fifteen months after the kidnaping of Edward G. Bremer, St. Paul banker, for $200,000 ransom, nine men and a woman are on trial in federal court at St. Paul charged with participation in the crime. Principal defendant is Arthur (Doc) Barker, leader with fugitive Alvin Karpis of the gang charged with the abduction. Co-defendants with Barker are Oliver A. Berg, Illinois prisoner serving life term; Jess Doyle of Kansas City; Mrs. Edna Murray, known as "The Kissing Bandit"; Edward Vidler, Philip J. Delaney, John J. (Boss) McLaughlin, and James J. Wilson, all of Chicago. Other defendants, not pictured above, are Harold Alderton, in whose Bensenville, Ill., home Bremer is alleged to have been kept prisoner, and Elmer Farmer, Bensenville tavern keeper. Byron Bolton, of Chicago, pleaded guilty as the trial opened.

MATCHED, BY THEIR LOOKS.

Cupid jumped the gun in Hollywood's newest romance, when Eleanor Bayley and Eddio Foy just couldn't wait for June to roll around, to be married. The pretty blond actress and her handsome mate, an assistant dance director, are shown here after the ceremony which June will have a hard time matching for loveliness.

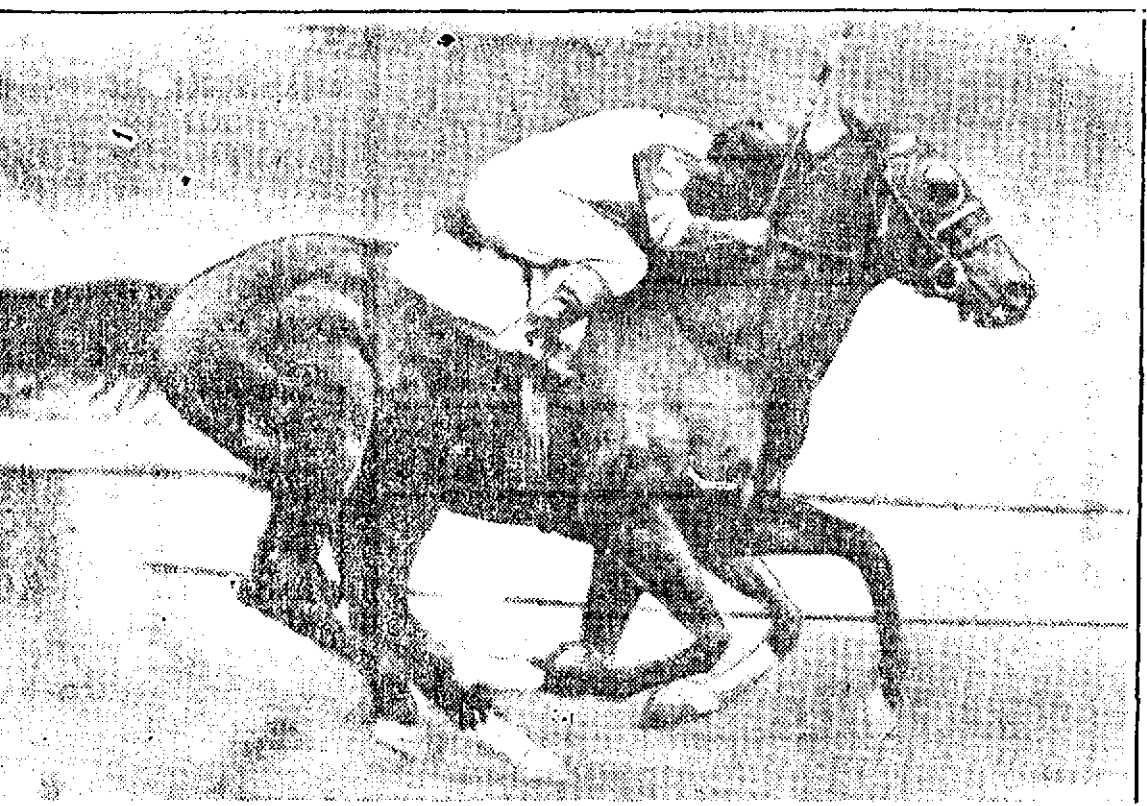

First it was trousers, then a divided skirt. But now—can it be that Marlene Dietrich, once the movie colony's foremost exponent of the mannish vogue, is going feminine? The smart outfit she's shown wearing on her return to Hollywood from New York looks a bit like a compromise in that direction.

Vestpocket Auto Is So Tiny It's Form Fitting

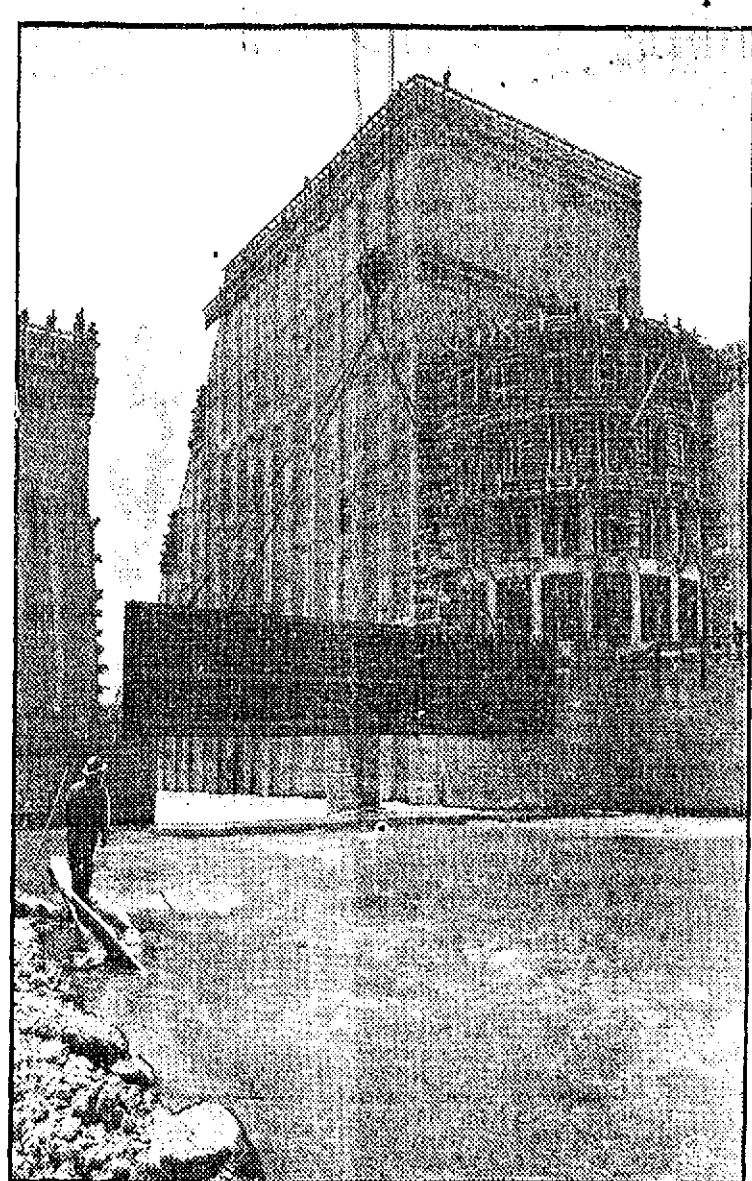

An automobile so small that the driver has to be fitted in and the cowlings fastened on later is being tried out at Brooklands, England. Using a 4 1-2 horsepower motor mounted in the rear, Victor Stalford nevertheless hopes to establish new speed records with it. It is pictured above during a trial run—and really runs.

Not Eight-Legged Horse—But a Dead Heat

When Sulfor, a veteran sprinter, and Dirigible, a young horse, roared down the home stretch of the Aqueduct race track so close together that they seemed to be a single animal, the judges had no hesitation in calling the race the rarest thing on the track—a dead heat. The horses are shown crossing the finish line simultaneously, looking like an eight-legged freak.

TVA Periled as First Gate Drops

Despite the peril to President Roosevelt's entire power program because of House opposition, work is going ahead at full speed on Norris Dam, key point of the mammoth TVA project in Tennessee. This striking picture shows the first 15-ton steel gate being lowered into place between two sections of the great Clinch river barrier, so filling of the far-reaching reservoir may be started.

Uncle Sam Bars Pretty Niece

American film fans may welcome charming Katherine De Mille, above, to their hearts, but the government itself seems a bit more technical. Since someone spelled her name "Lester" as "Lester" when she arrived from Canada 14 years ago, immigration authorities are withholding citizenship papers from the director's adopted daughter until she proves she entered under her own name.

Look for These New Faces

You may have seen all but one of these five faces in the movies, and those in minor roles. But be prepared to see all five featured hereafter in big type on the screen. One of the Hollywood studios has signed these youngsters on long-term contracts. They are (1) Rita Cansino, (2) Barbara Blanc, (3) Frances Grant, (4) Madelyn Earle, (5) Rosita Diaz.

Sanity Test May Save Love Slayer

R. A. Edwards Facing Electric Chair at Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

WILKES-BARRE, Pa.—(AP)—Arrested in love novels, Robert Allen Edwards, youthful "American Tragedy" slayer of Freda McKee, waits with apparently little concern for alienists to say whether he should die in the electric chair.

The coal engineer's helper, who called himself a "ladies' man," is under sentence to be executed May 6. He was convicted last October of blackjacking his neighborhood "girl friend" so he could marry Margaret Crain, an East Aurora, N. Y., music teacher.

Freda's father, George McKee, also a mine worker, has told the Pennsylvania pardon board that he will not object if the board "sees fit" to commute the sentence to life imprisonment. Nine of the jurors who convicted Edwards, likewise will have no objections.

Attorney Hints "Deranged Mind"

Attorney General Charles J. Margott has said the torrid letters Edwards sent the Crain girl—a sensation in Edwards' trial—"indicate a deranged mind."

Bobby and Freda were neighbors in Edwardsville. But at Mansfield Teachers college, Edwards fell in love with Margaret Crain. They planned to be married. Edwards quit school and upon his return to the mining community again "kept company" with Freda.

Last June she told him she was to become a mother. They talked of a hasty marriage. A few nights before Freda was to become Edward's bride, they went for a swim in Harvey's lake, a nearby pleasure resort. Though rain pelted upon them and lightning flashed, Freda plunged into the water.

Edwards returned home late that night—without Freda. Her body, the head latered, was found next day in the lake. A blackjack belonging to Edwards was picked up nearby. He was indicted.

Pardon Officials "Not Satisfied"

At the close of the trial, a jury of miners spent the night studying Edwards' love letters to Margaret Crain and a great mass of testimony, and it daybreak convicted him with the recommendation of execution.

Edwards paled for a minute, then asked for a cigarette.

Pennsylvania's supreme court ruled against a new trial and the case was carried to the pardon board.

Pardon officials said they were "not satisfied" with the autopsy and that they want to study the testimony of medical men. They also urged that Edwards' mentality be scrutinized.

Edwards, grinning sheepishly, subjected himself to the examination, then turned again to his novels.

Hollywood Players Go British

You may see more British films in the near future, but you'll find several familiar faces in them, due to the raids British film producers are making on Hollywood. Above are the products of the first raid, all signed by Michael Balcon, Gaumont-British executive. At top left is Madge Evans and at right, Helen Vinson. Below, left to right, are Richard Dix and C. Aubrey Smith. More are expected to follow these to England.

Vegetable Dinner Is Sure Way to Economy

I've forgotten exactly how many different vegetables are available right now but it's over fifty—and there'll be more as summer rolls around.

With all these flavorful vegetables to choose from, it does seem a pity that we go right on serving meat and potatoes and string beans and lettuce and pie to our families. Properly cooked and tastefully seasoned, folks won't make so much ado about eating them.

One of the surest economical meals is the vegetable plate, with eggs or tomatoes bringing up the protein content. Vegetables must be cooked carefully to preserve their vibrant colors. And avoid over-cooking. Vegetables should be tender, of course, but not soft or mushy. Over-cooking causes loss of color and flavor.

Start in Boiling Water

Always put vegetables on to cook in boiling water. Old potatoes are the only exception.

Cook strongly flavored vegetables in a large quantity of water, keeping them uncovered for the entire cooking period.

Cook delicately flavored vegetables in as little water as possible. I salt vegetables when they are about half done because I think the flavor is improved.

Seasoning that adds to the palatability of many vegetables is lemon juice. You know how often old-time cooks used vinegar! Well, lemon juice does the same trick, but much better.

The best way to plan vegetable plates is to see the whole thing in your mind's eye—just as it will look when served. Don't repeat flavors and colors. Try to work out contrasts, using parsley and paprika for high lights.

A mound of rich green spinach topped with a poached egg and encircled by carrot slices, asparagus stalks slipped through a lemon ring and crimson beet makes a colorful plate.

If you serve a fruit salad, which will answer also for dessert, you will have a delicious dinner which is very little trouble to prepare.

These dessert salads are ideal for spring meals. They may be frozen or jellied to suit your own convenience.

Gingerbread Salad

Two tablespoons granulated gelatin, 4 tablespoons cold water, 1/2 cup boiling water, 1 cup ginger ale, 1/2 cup lemon juice, 4 tablespoons ginger syrup, 1 cup diced apple, celery, cream cheese, canned red cherries, pecan, 1 cup mayonnaise, 1/2 cup whipping cream, preserved ginger.

Preserved ginger can be bought in small glass jars at any fancy grocery.

Soften gelatin in cold water for five minutes. Dissolve in boiling water. Add ginger ale, lemon juice and syrup from preserved ginger. When mixture begins to jelly add apples. Turn into a mold and let stand until firm and chilled. Unmold and serve with mayonnaise combined with whipped cream and threads of preserved ginger. Surround the mold with cherries stuffed with cream cheese.

HARRY GRAYSON

Mickey Cochrane considers Linne Frey the best shortstop in baseball. The St. Louis youngster is one of the principal reasons why the Detroit manager says, "Give the Brooklyn club one more Van Mungo and it would steal second place in the National League this season—perhaps even first."

Frey is only 22 and starting his second complete season in the majors. He was a switch hitter when he came up from Nashville in the fall of 1933, but stuck to the left side of the plate last year. Now he is switching again. Junior, as Casey Stengel calls him, appears frail, but hits the ball for good distances.

Brooklyn impressed Cochrane more than any other outfit that the Tigers encountered in the south. The Dodgers should have. They won four out of four from the American League champions.

"The outfield has power at bat and can field," explains Mirabeau Mike. "Freddie Bordagary will help the club tremendously. He hit .330 for the White Sox last season when he wasn't satisfied."

"The Brooklyn infield pulled seven double plays against us in three games."

"The entire club pounded all our pitchers except Tommy Bridges. 'Al Lopez is a great catcher.'"

So all Stengel has to do to excel the feat Cochrane accomplished with the Tigers in 1934 is to dig up another Mungo.

Casey undoubtedly has strained his eyes to do that even since he took command across the bridge.

Frogs in His Throat

This whopper by Chester McCarty took the minnow mounted on a fancy shield at the national convention of the Izak Walton League in Chicago.

"I was fishing on the banks of the Deshutes river in Oregon and had a dime's worth of luck with the bait I was using," recounted McCarty.

"Some one had told me that when all other baits failed to land 'em, frogs would do the trick."

"I went in search of frogs and finally found one. Being a little near sighted, I failed to see that the frog was being held in the mouth of a big vicious looking rattlesnake until my hand was a few inches from it."

"Having a bottle of whiskey with me, I poured a few drops of the stuff down the snake's throat. He dropped the frog. I picked it up, returned to where I had left my fishing tackle, and began casting with the frog as bait. Pretty soon I felt something tapping against my boot."

"When I looked down I saw the snake to which I had given the whiskey. He held two frogs in his mouth."

Break 304; Win Open

Tommy Armour asserts that anybody who breaks 304 at Oakmont in June will win the U. S. Open championship.

The Briton agrees with Gene Sarazen that the Pittsburgh layout is the toughest golf course in the world. Between them, they ought to know, and this opinion is unanimous as far as persons familiar with Oakmont are concerned.

Armour won the only U. S. Open ever staged at Oakmont, beating Lighthorse Harry Cooper in a playoff.

Balancing the contention that Oakmont has been made a harder course since 1927 is another that the players of today score lower.

Without wind or rain, Oakmont will be an ideal course, perfectly groomed with lightning fast greens and fairways of rich turf. Rain would lengthen the course considerably beyond the actual 7000 yards it measures.

Students Vow 'No Aid in War'

Proclaiming the stand taken against war by thousands of American students, this enormous poster dominated the meeting held at Columbia University, New York, where Roger Baldwin, noted pacifist, is shown leading the throng in reading the Oxford pledge, printed on the poster. In a nation-wide protest against conflict, demonstrations were held at many colleges, violence resulting at several of the gatherings.

Thedford's Black-Draught is one of the most popular laxatives sold today because it is made of the leaves and roots of medicinal plants, and because it brings refreshing relief from constipation troubles.

"Black-Draught helped me when I was bilious, constipated, feeling sluggish, dizzy, or had a bad taste in my mouth," writes Mrs. W. M. Bullock, Waynesburg, Ky. "I haven't found any medicine I like better than Black-Draught."

It's the favorite laxative of thousands of others. Have you tried it? THEODOR'S BLACK-DRAUGHT

Saturday Is PAY DAY for Hope Star Carrier Boys

Hope Star now employs 15 carrier boys. Each boy is his own merchant and should be paid each Saturday when he calls, as he is required to settle each Saturday night in full with the Hope Star for the papers he receives.

Carriers should not be expected to make repeated calls for collections, when the amount is so small, as the large number of deliveries they make, and the amount of time required in collecting from their customers does not permit this.

Hope Star deeply appreciates the patronage of every customer, and hopes they will be willing to make it a point to have the 10 cents ready for the carrier when he makes his first call.

Any failure on the part of the subscriber to pay is a direct loss to the young man. Although the amount is small in each individual case, very many such delays and losses could be a serious matter to the carrier that serves you.
